To the Public Utilities Commission,

As a long-time state resident and utility ratepayer, I would like to urge you to accept the settlement in Docket 22-060. New Hampshire needs to maintain net metering policies and work to improve them for ratepaying residents. Net metering makes solar energy projects cost effective and practical, and it puts them in reach for those who might not be able to pay for these projects otherwise.

Residents of our state deserve to be fairly compensated for putting solar panels on their homes, as they are in every other New England state. In addition, net metering supports small-scale solar power and solar businesses, which are necessary to increase our local energy independence and prepare for the clean energy grid of the future.

It is in both the State's economic interest and the public interest for the Public Utilities Commission to accept the Settlement that Clean Energy NH and others have brought to this issue.

Sincerely,

Doug Bogen
