I object to any raise in delivery fees for Liberty Utilities. I believe this is an attempt to cover lost income from towns, such as Lebanon, purchasing electricity for their residents at a lower rate from other sources.

As a senior citizen living on a fixed income, having my electricity increase by 50% due to the oil embargo imposed by Russia was a big pill to swallow. I have noticed that gas prices have fallen, but see no commensurate drop in my electric bill. Why is that so?

Unless Liberty can show they will have a 15 million dollar deficit next year I think they do not need this kind of raise, now or in 20024 or 2025.
