6. SERVICE EXTENSION TERMS AND CONDITIONS

6. (a) Mains and Services. In areas where the company is authorized to operate, subject to other provisions of this tariff, service is available as described below:

(1) Residential.

Existing Mains: Service is available without a contribution when the length of service is eighty (80) feet or less per customer (or an average of eighty (80) feet or less when multiple customers are connected) and there are no abnormal costs, as defined below.

Main Extension: Service is available without a contribution when the twenty-five percent (25%) test is met and there are no abnormal costs, as described below.

- (2) Non-Residential. Regardless of whether service is taken from an existing main or if a main extension is required, service is available without a contribution when the twenty-five percent (25%) test is met and there are no abnormal costs, as described below.

- (3) Twenty-Five Percent (25%) Test. The twenty-five percent (25%) shall be calculated as follows:

When the Company's estimate of the net annual revenue from the customer exceeds twenty-five percent (25%) of the company's estimate of construction cost, no contribution toward the cost of the main or service extension shall be deemed necessary from the customer.

Net annual revenue is the total annual revenue less the weighted average cost of gas.

- (4) Contribution in Aid of Construction (CIAC). Service is available to customers who do not meet the above twenty-five percent (25%) test provided that the customer(s) make a contribution to reduce the company's investment. Such contribution may be apportioned by agreement among the customers served.

The amount of contribution will be the difference between the construction cost and twenty-five percent (25%) of the net annual revenue. Unless otherwise agreed to by the company, the contribution is required before construction is commenced. The contribution will be based on the company's estimates of construction cost and net annual revenue.

Dated: January 5, 2015
Effective: January 2, 2015

Issued by: Daniel G. Saad
Title: President

The company will refund the contribution received that is in excess of the contribution needed. The contribution needed is based on actual construction cost and actual net revenue for the first twelve (12) months of service ending April.

- (5) Abnormal Costs. Where costs for any main or service extension are expected to be higher than normal, the customer may be required to contribute for the amount by which the costs exceeds that which is considered normal. Such abnormal costs would include costs attributable to frost, ledge, ditching, backfill and/or other conditions not uniformly encountered in service and/or main construction and that are peculiar to the particular service and/or main construction concerned.
6. (b) Shortest Distance. Services are run the shortest safe practical distance to the premises. However, a customer may have the company install a longer alternate service provided that the customer defrays the extra expenses.
6. (c) Winter Construction. Ordinarily no new service pipes or main extensions are installed during winter conditions (when frost is in the ground) unless the customer defrays the extra expenses.
6. (d) Perpetual Easement. Before installing a main or service the company may require a perpetual easement to install and maintain the main or service.
6. (e) Reasonable Duration and Non-Discrimination. Under none of the foregoing provisions will the company be required to install service pipes or to construct main extensions where the business to be secured will not be of reasonable duration or will tend, in any way, to constitute discrimination against other customers of the company.

7. INTRODUCTION OF SERVICE

17. (b) Application. A cost of gas rate will be calculated for the winter heating period, defined as the period from November 1 through April 30, and a cost of gas rate will be calculated for the summer period, defined as the period from May 1 through October 31.

The winter cost of gas rate will be applied to billings commencing with the first November revenue billing cycle; the summer cost of gas rate will be applied to billings commencing with the first May revenue billing cycle.

17. (c) Calculation. The amount of the cost of gas rate is the anticipated unit cost of gas sold.

At the conclusion of each winter and summer period the company will calculate the extent that cost of gas revenues are greater or less than actual unit costs of gas compared with the anticipated unit costs. The calculated difference (actual gas sales volumes multiplied by the difference between actual and anticipated unit costs) will be carried forward into the computation of the cost of gas rate for the corresponding winter or summer period.

Any excess revenue collected, as determined above, will earn interest as specified by the Commission.
